IEI SUMMER 2021 TRAINING SERIES

7/20—STRATEGIES TO OVERCOME EXECUTIVE FUNCTIONING ISSUES IN THE ACADEMIC ENVIRONMENT

10AM

This workshop will provide an overview of common executive functioning issues associated with mental health conditions. Participants will develop an understanding of how to recognize these issues and address them through utilization of compensatory strategies or accommodations.

7/27—SELECTING THE EDUCATIONAL ENVIRONMENT

10AM

This workshop will provide strategies for assisting people interested in pursuing higher education on what to consider when deciding on the type of educational environment based on their goals. We will cover certificate, career and technical education, and academic degree programs.

8/3—ONLINE BENEFITS CALCULATORS

10AM

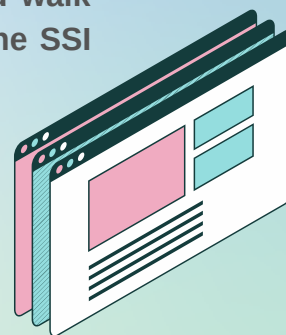

Keeping track of, and calculating, SSDI and SSI benefits can be daunting. Fortunately, there are some online tools that do the figuring for you. If you are a practitioner or a job seeker who wants accurate information about how earned income will impact Social Security benefits, this training will introduce and walk you through two valuable sites: “db101.org” and Cornell University’s “Online SSI Calculator.” And you don’t need to do any arithmetic or bring a calculator.

8/17—DEVELOPING ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATIONS

10AM

This workshop will provide an overview of the legislation that protects students with disabilities and grants them access to accommodations, the process of requesting academic accommodations in higher education, and how to pair functional issues related to mental health conditions with individualized reasonable accommodations.
